

Position: Legal Intern
Location: Philadelphia, PA
Dates: Summer 2018 (full-time for 10 weeks)

Intern with Pennsylvania's Premier Environmental Law Organization

PennFuture is one of the first statewide environmental organizations in Pennsylvania to employ a full-time litigation staff located around the state to fulfill its mission. PennFuture holds its lawyers to a very high standard that demands intellectual excellence, rigorous preparation, ethical integrity, and a zealous commitment to the mission of conserving Pennsylvania's natural resources for this and future generations.

A legal internship with PennFuture offers a unique opportunity to use advocacy skills to make a difference at the grassroots and programmatic levels, watchdog skills to ensure government decisions are made only after effective public participation and in compliance with the law, and litigation skills to protect the environment and compel compliance with the law. Areas of focus include protection of Pennsylvania's air, water, land and wildlife resources.

The small size of the team at PennFuture enables a legal intern to be a crucial asset to our efforts, as well as provide the opportunity to work directly with experienced attorneys. A legal intern with PennFuture will receive direct feedback from supervising attorneys and participate in the legal team's meetings, as well as meetings of the full staff. We look forward to welcoming a legal intern onto our team and to the contributions they will make to our mission.

Qualifications: Currently enrolled in law school. We look for candidates with excellent writing, research, and analytical skills, as well as solid interpersonal skills. An environmental and/or administrative law background is preferable, but not a requirement.

Compensation: Stipend may be available.
